There shouldn't be any fussing at softball games this summer because apparently "everybody" knows all the rules! Bill Bullard conducted a softball rules clinic on Tuesday aight, and only 18 people showed up. There are 12 men's teams in Elba and 9 women's teams. With 10 players on each team and at least two coaches per team, that means over 250 people will be involved in softball. But, only 18 people came to the rules clinic. I guess the other 230 people already know the rules!

The City of Elba allows the women's softball teams to play behind the school for a minimal cost of $25 per team. Last night I was at the ball park and counted 18 lights that had blown. There are 40 lights at the field, but only 22 work. The women's league starts April 17, and unless the city does some work in a hurry they'll have to play in near-dark-
